ST. JACOBS OIL
Chronic Neuralgia.

Permanent Cures. June 11, 1887.
Suffered a long time with neuralgia in the head; was prostrated at times; gave St. Jacobs Oil a trial; have been entirely cured; no return.
JEREMIAH EBEY, 1213 W. Lombard st., Balto., Md.

Permanent Cures. October 27, 1886.
My wife was paralyzed from neuralgia; she could not walk a step; I bought St. Jacobs Oil; after one bottle was used she walked about; continued use completely cured her. JAS. P. MURPHY, Springfield, Tenn.

Permanent Cures. June 17, 1887.
Years ago had neuralgia; not subject to attacks now; the cure by use of St. Jacobs Oil was permanent; there has been no recurrence of the painful affliction. E. W. SPANGLER, York, Penna.

HIS HAIR TURNED WHITE.

A Chicago Business Man's Experiences in the Far Northwest.

A successful Chicago business man, well known in real-estate circles, regaled a reporter for the Tribune with a bit of personal experience. They met in an office not far from the Chicago Opera-House block. Though yet middle-aged, the man's hair is gray almost to whiteness. On the reporter mentioning this, he told the following story:

"In December, 1885, I invested in a copper mine near Bisbee, A. T., and January 4, 1886, arrived at Tombstone to examine into my purchase. I hired a saddle-horse the morning of the 5th, and started for Bisbee (thirty-three miles), over the trail that leads through Carr's Canyon in the Mule Mountains. When about half the distance had been covered my horse stumbled and fell into a washout on the trail, breaking a leg. I was thrown heavily, but sustained no severe injuries. What was I to do? I was unarmed, my horse was useless, and I had no alternative but to make my way to Bisbee on foot. I pushed ahead and arrived at Sandy Bob's station on the ore road at noon. I was told that four hostile Indians from Geronimo's band had been seen in the vicinity, and that a squaw had been captured the day before. I kept on up a narrow canyon, keeping a sharp lookout. A pack train of troop I, Fourth Cavalry, passed me in single file. Shortly after it had passed I heard two shots down the canyon. Then I began to get nervous. Looking back I saw two Indians on my trail. They were trotting. Above me the cliffs towered to the heavens; below was a deep abyss. I saw the futility of hiding, and was unable to outrun the hostiles. My mind was quickly made up. I would leap from the precipice before I would surrender and undergo the devilish tortures and horrible death of an Apache prisoner. As they came nearer I backed up to the cliff and awaited them with knife in hand. To my joy, as they came nearer, I found them to be Indian scouts of the Government. I traveled with them for three miles. I took one of their rifles and, firing, hit a stump at three hundred yards. One of the Indians patted me on the back and cried: 'Bueno, bueno, Senor!' and then in broken English: 'You heap good man.' I said nothing, but kept my eyes wide open, as I was afraid of treachery. When I arrived at Bisbee my hair was white from the fright."

"And your mine?"

"Proved a whale on my hands. It was only on paper."

VICTORIA'S FOOTMAN.

A Good Story of Lord Melbourne, Once Prime Minister of England.

In the days when Prince Albert had come to woo the Queen of England the crowd of people who wished to catch a glimpse of royalty as it promenaded upon the terrace at Windsor Castle was greatly increased by reason of the general interest in the young couple. One day a Yorkshireman, who had determined to get a good look at the Queen, appeared at the gates by which the spectators were usually admitted, and thus accosted a man, a footman evidently, who was at that moment crossing the courtyard:

"Look here, John, Robert, whatever they call you, I coom from the country."

"So I hear," said the footman.

"Well, I've never seen t' Queen, and I want to get a good sight of her. Now, can't you just let me through them gates, just afore 't rest o' t' folks? I want to get a good place, ye see."

"Well, sir," said the man. "I don't know whether I dare. I might lose my place, you see."

"Nay, mun, thou'll never lose thy place for such a thing as that. Thou can say to 't Queen that she hasn't got a more loyaller subject than John Stoke, not in all Yorkshire. I nobbut want to go in just afore 't rest on 'em."

"Well, come along, then," said the man. He opened the gate and the eager Yorkshireman rushed through. As he did so an idea seemed to strike him, and he stopped to tender the footman a half crown.

"No, thank you, sir," said the man, "we are forbidden to take fees."

"Take it, mun, take it. Noboddy'll know."

"No, thank you, sir."

The Yorkshireman secured a foremost place, and in due time appeared the Queen and Prince. More than that, conversing familiarly with her Majesty was the footman.

"Just look there!" cried the country visitor to a bystander. "He's a laughing and talking to t' Queen like any thing!"

"Who?"

"Why t' chap that opened me the gate—t' footman—him with the blue coat and red collar."

When the listener's laughter would allow him to speak, he explained:

"Blue coat and red collar! Why that's the Windsor uniform, and your footman is Lord Melbourne, the Prime Minister!"

A Hint to Smokers.

It is remarkable that people smoke so much tobacco in its various forms that is impregnated with deadly nicotine when by a simple method which would not detract one whit from its good quality, but would remove all that is objectionable, the tobacco could be made free of this poison. Merely soak the tobacco a day in a shallow trough and then lay it in the sun, if feasible; if not, dry by the most convenient means, and the weed is robbed of all odoriferous properties and of nicotine. It is then so sweet the fumes would not offend the most sensitive lady, because it has no fumes. Besides, the vessel in which it is burned does not become "strong"—a valuable thing for a man who prefers a meerschaum pipe to cigars.

THE FAT AND THE LEAN.

Characteristics of Men with an Excess or a Lack of Flesh.

It may be observed, without intentional offense to any young lady who may be enamored of some skeleton-like young man that, as a rule, fat men, besides being the most jolly and convivial of the male species, are also apt to be the most considerate of and charitable to others. Most fat men, says the New York Epoch, are ever ready to smile, nay, to laugh heartily. They usually possess happy natures—perhaps because as a class they have good appetites and enjoy what they eat. They are more sociable than their lean brethren—a fact which properly explains why no one ever heard of a lean man's clam-bake. After all is said that can be said against them the fact still remains that seven out of ten fat men make excellent husbands.

Most unmarried ladies cherish as their ideals men who are tall and can not boast of any unusual amount of adipose tissue. They spurn the idea of a fat man for a life-long companion, and yet many marriages with fat men and also with men who grow rapidly or gradually stout after marriage have turned out very well.

A lady who has her home on Fifth avenue, a widow, whose two husbands repose side by side in Greenwood, remarked the other day to the writer: "My first husband was of the brunet order, tall, angular, sallow-faced, saturnine, nervous—even to irritability at times, and more or less of an invalid during the latter part of his life. No couple could have furnished a wider contrast in temperament than ourselves. I am social by nature, fond of attending theaters and of sight-seeing, while he was a morbid recluse, taking no interest whatever in the world's gayeties. I really believe if he had had a little more flesh on his bones he would have been a different, not to say a happier, man. Mind you I am casting no stones at his cherished memory. My second husband belonged to another genus. He was six feet two inches in height and weighed 250 pounds. He was a pronounced blonde and a perfect picture of health. He took an interest in every thing, though not to the detriment of his business. I never had to ask him twice to go any where with me. He was always eager to participate in any thing where mirth and a good time were promised. But the poor man drank too much champagne and ate too many late suppers and apoplexy carried him off."

A lady in Brooklyn on being asked what physical style of a man she preferred replied: "The one I have suits me very well. He is neither fat nor lean." According to my ideas of masculine physique he is just right." Another lady who was present volunteered the information that her husband was too fat for his own comfort and that when he moved he suggested to her the picture of a big piece of animated jelly. Going up one flight of stairs made him puff like a fire-engine, and he was always complaining of some pain. She feared that he had fatty degeneration of the heart.

A popular clergyman who weighs over two hundred and fifty, on being asked his views respecting fat men thus replied, with a merry twinkle in his eye: "There are different kinds of fat men. There is the little, round, oily, fat man. There is the digastric fat man who owes his extreme avoirdupois to beer and high living. Of course I can not approve of him as a fat man. Then there is the man who gets abnormally fat because he is lazy and indolent. To me such a man is an object for compassion. But for the man who is born and stays fat, or the man who gets fat naturally as he matures, I have the highest respect, providing the man in other ways is worthy."

A lank, cadaverous-visaged poet, who often seen walking along Newspaper row, was recently asked if he would not enjoy life more keenly if he were a trifle more corpulent. "No," he swiftly and disdainfully answered, "corpulency befits aldermen, boodlers and saloon-keepers. Though a literary man, I never indulge in malt, which—to paraphrase from Emerson—is 'making the Western wits fat and mean.' You will find that the majority of intellectual people are not gross, though many of them are what might be termed plump. Point me out ten fat men and I will point you out nine stupid men. Was Apollo coarse and unctuous? Was the Greek conception of a perfectly modeled body that of one weighing three hundred pounds? No. Art and poetry ever have sought to immortalize such lithe and willowy forms as that of Venus, such trim, athletic limbs as those of Diana, such graceful symmetry as that of Hebe. Really, I would rather be a snail than a fat man."

"Assuming," observed the poet's questioner, "that as a rule those not fat are the most intellectual and eminent in the world, how do you account for the fact that of all the people who obtain divorces only about one-fourth are fat people?"

"Oh," returned the poet, "you might as well ask why there are not as many fat people in the world as lean. I am not married, but if I ever do take a wife you may rest assured that she will not be a woman of such dimensions as to attract offers from dime museum managers."

Then the long-haired votary of the muse pursued his fanciful way toward a fifteen-cent restaurant.

Filling a Long-Felt Want.

Some day or other every reporter will carry around a phonograph, and when he interviews a man the latter's words will be taken down with an accuracy admitting of no dispute. Then when the interviewed gentleman comes around in the morning like a volcanic eruption to explain that his language was distorted and all that sort of thing, the reporter can quietly pull the phonograph with one hand and a gun with the other and ask him what he is going to do about it. When this scheme can be successfully operated a long-felt want will be filled. As it is at present, when a man gets into trouble because of his remarks being faithfully printed he at once swears that the reporter mixed up his words with an egg beater and then run them in. In such a manner the guileless newspaper man frequently gains a reputation for lying which he does not deserve.

He Acted Well His Part.

Captain William Jameson, of Friendship, Me., is called the Paul Revere of the Meduncook. He received the name in the following way: It was during the war of 1812, and the British, with muffled oars and under cover of darkness, were trying to reach and burn the little fleet of fishing schooners at the head of the Meduncook river, hoping also to gather in some chickens, eggs, etc., from the settlers along the route. Jameson, then a boy of fourteen, mounted his horse and rode through the town, giving the alarm at every house. He then returned home, jumped from his horse, and catching up his little flint lock rifle with twenty-four rounds of cartridges, started off on the run across lots to join his neighbors at Bradford's Point. The British soon found that they were discovered and hastened back to their ship.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION.

THE Los Angeles Times thus sums up the lesson the Johnstown disaster teaches: Firstly, in general, we are reminded of the utter insignificance of man. In spite of the wisdom that has put an electric girdle around the world; that has drained oceans and irrigated deserts; that has made Nature give up her innermost secrets—in spite of these things, man, puny man, stands to-day as powerless before a convulsion of Nature as were his progenitors, who roamed the forests clothed in skins. Let the waters above the earth be let loose, or the winds of heaven gather together, or the subterraneau gases distend themselves, and the proudest triumphs of our architects and engineers are leveled to the dust, while we ourselves are swept to destruction like ants in an irrigating ditch or moths that are burned in the flame of a lamp.

Secondly, in particular, the lesson which this calamity seems to tell us is that human beings should not tempt death by settling thickly right in the conrse of an imprisoned mountain of waters—in a narrow valley, crowned by a great reservoir, however thick the walls may be which holds its death-dealing powers in check. Such a death-trap may be safe for a hundred or for a thousand years, but what does that avail the unfortunates who perished in the thousand and first year? Let this lesson be laid well to heart, and the present disaster—the greatest which has ever visited this country—may not have been in vain.

Meantime, let us loosen not only our hearts, but also our purse-strings, to the unfortunates in that Pennsylvania valley.

THE Seattle $10,000,000 blaze is another potent argument in favor of Western towns and cities taking stringent measures towards doing away with all kinds of fire traps within their limits. The loss by fire on the Pacific coast is much greater than elsewhere on the continent in proportion to the population. This fact is owing to the mania for frame structures, which is beginning to be realized. Ten million dollars is a vast sum, and with all the vim and energy that can be rallied in that phenomenal city of Seattle, it will take it a long time to recover from its great loss. It was only the favorable condition of the wind that saved Reno from being razed the time of the late fire. It is encouraging to see how rapidly almost everybody is taking to the ordinance recently passed creating a fire limit and providing for the better protection of the town.

A GEORGIA Justice of the Peace had a little dispute with a bailiff the other day, which he closed by shooting the bailiff dead, and notching him on the stock of his gun as his seventh. Then he went home full of serenity, and waited for anybody who wanted a hole made in him to come around to arrest him. He is still there, and the Governor of Georgia has actually issued his proclamation offering anybody two hundred dollars' reward who will go down and arrest the Justice of the Peace. Probably this is the most unique reward ever offered by the Governor of any State in the Union.

THE charge made in an article in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, that one-half the bean crop of the United States is consumed in Boston and its environs, and that it is all because a meal of beans costs no more than one cent in the currency of the republic, is a serious one. It shows, if true, that it is because the Bostonians have brains that they eat beans, not because they want brains. The distinction is a wide one. Economy is wealth, and Boston has known it from time immemorial, and has been writing mortgages on the rest of the country in consequence.

THE race between the detectives and the reportorial liars in Chicago is a close one, but the liars are, as usual, a little ahead. They turn up more fake confessions of the Cronin murderers by half a dozen a day than the detectives can achieve.

SEATTLE, June 8.—Until such time as a long stock of supplies can be received the entire city will have to subsist on what has been saved and the generous donations from abroad. The people of Seattle are already thankful to Tacoma for its great and immediate aid. The city is now being strictly patrolled, and all suspicious characters without passes are placed under arrest. Citizens, policemen and militia are armed with all necessary weapons, and are determined to prevent crime of any sort. So far no trouble has been reported. A couple of safes in the southern portion of the burned dirtrict were opened by thieves. The burned district covers, as near as can be estimated, 130 acres of the solid built portion of the city. At a conservative estimate the loss is between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. The insurance is small. Many of the merchants are totally bankrupt and a great many are seriously crippled.

Aid for the Seattle Sufferers.

HARRISBURG, June 9.—Governor Beaver has invited Governor Hill to join him in a proclamation to the people of New York and Pennsylvania, inviting them to make special contributions through the churches to-morrow for the relief of the sufferers by the disastrous fire at Seattle, and suggested that these collections be immediately forwarded to the Central Committee, consisting of ex-President Cleveland, Jay Gould and George W. Childs, for transmission to the proper authorities in Washington Territory. The Governor has not yet heard from Governor Hill, but is hourly expecting his assent to the proposition.

Mataafa To Be Rewarded.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In recognition of the valuable service rendered by King Mataafa in saving life and property on the occasion of the hurricane in Samoa, the Navy Department has decided upon sending him a whale boat of the latest improved model. It will be of the Clinker build, of the finest material and fittings. It will be built at the navy yard at Mare Island, and when completed will be sent to King Mataafa, accompanied by an autograph letter from President Harrison, testifying in the highest possible manner to the bravery exhibited by Mataafa and his men in rescuing so many American soldiers. The boat will be accompanied to Apia by a committee of the surviving officers, and it is expected the party will leave California about the middle of August.

The disposition of the wrecks of the Vandalia and Trenton, destroyed at Apia, has been under consideration by the Navy Department. Admiral Kimberly recommended that the ships be abandoned, and it is likely they will be.

The Cronin Inquest.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Peter McGee, who was on the stand in the Cronin inquest this morning, testified that he came here from Philadelphia as a result of a quarrel about a woman. He did not say before leaving that he was going on a dangerous work for the Executive. One day Cronin met him on the street and accused him of coming here to murder him (Cronin). On the night of the murder witness was in Pullman.

At the close of McGeehan's testimony the hearing was adjourned until Monday, and McGeehan was taken in custody.

Near the close of his testimony McGeehan admitted that in his camp at Philadelphia he was known as 1 and John O'Neal as 2.

America's Niggardly Mail Service.

MONTREAL, June 8.—Pridham of Australia is here making inquiries about the Canadian Pacific Railroad as a mail route, on behalf of Australia. He says there is a very great feeling of annoyance in Australia against the American Government for not assisting the mail service between the two countries.

Dock Laborers' Strike.

GLASGOW, June 8.—Three thousand dock laborers have struck for an increase of a halfpence per hour. The stevedores have also struck and demand an increase of a penny.

BELFAST, June 8.—The strike of the seamen and firemen has paralyzed the shipping business.

Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The weekly bank statement shows a reserve decrease of $3,549,000. The banks now hold $11,656,000 in excess of the legal rule.

Relief From Ireland.

DUBLIN, June 8.—Lord Mayor Sexton has cabled to America £1,000 for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers.

The Situation at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, June 8.—The day opened with a heavy rain and thunder storm. The hill-side streams are filled to their banks and the air is chilly and damp. On the whole, the rain is far from pleasant to the busy workers, but it is certainly providential that the cool weather is cotinuing, thus preventing the decomposition of hundreds of human bodies yet unrecovered, and thousands of animals that perished in the flames and flood. At 8 o'clock this morning five bodies had been taken from the stone bridge. A large force of men have been working on this, but so great is the quantity of the wreckage that comparatively slow progress is being made. A large quantity of powerful disinfectants are being used with good effect. The Government civil engineers have arrived and have begun the construction of pontoon bridges with pontoons brought from the East, and it is expected that all necessary bridges will be constructed to-day. From Bolivar to Johnstown the sidetracks of the Pennsylvania railroad are filled with cars loaded with lumber, furniture and goods of all description for the sufferers. The sun came out with a fierce heat about 10 o'clock.

Forty bodies were recovered to-day up to 3 o'clock.

Signing the Treaty.

ROSEBUD, D. T., June 7.—The Commissioners held another council with the Indians this afternoon. Yellow Hair, Swift Bull, Hollow Horn and others spoke. Hollow Horn asked General Crook to tell them about it, saying they all knew him and would listen.

General Crook spoke briefly and forcibly to the Indians, explaining the provisions of the bill, and saying they could sign or not. He told them that the government could not always feed them, and that they must become self-supporting. At six o'clock 400 had signed, including many prominent chiefs. One thousand must sign in order to meet the requirements of the bill.

Nearly a Clean-Up.

NEW YORK, June 8.—This afternoon it is athoritatively stated the stockholders of the Southern White Lead Company of St. Louis have sold their stock to the National Lead Trust. This company has very large works and their output of white and red lead for several years past has been much the largest in the United States, in fact in the world. The Eckstein company of Cincinnati has also signed a contract to sell to the trust, and word reaches here that negotiations looking to the absorption of the Atlantic mills of Brooklyn are on foot. By these acquisitions the trust gains control of over ninety per cent. of the United States.

Sentence Commuted.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—In the case of Captain George A. Armes, U. S. A. (retired), sentenced by a Court-martial to be dismissed from the service, the President commuted his sentence, in consideration of good service and some mitigating circumstances connected with the offense of which he was found guilty, to confinement within such limits as the Secretary of War may prescribe and the deprivation of the right to wear the uniform and insignia of his rank for five years.

The Flood in West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 8.—Advices received from the south branch of the valley, which show unprecedented floods in the Potomac river, came from this branch. Much damage has been done, but nothing definite as to the loss of life has been received. Wire and mail communication is entirely lost.

Another Arrest.

PARIS, June 8.—Reicher Sous, Intendent Militaire, one of the attaches of the Ministry of War, has been arrested. It is believed the papers seized in the house of the two Boulangist leaders yesterday showed that he is implicated in the Boulangist plot.

A Few More Pieces.

LONDON, June 8.—Another portion of a body was found in the river this afternoon. A third fragment, with no coloring on it, was picked up in Sir Percy Shelley's garden at Chelsea.

Badly Scattered.

LONDON, June 8.—The left hand and arm of a fisherwoman, portions of whose body have been found in different parts of the Thames, were taken from the river this morning.

Steamship Strikes.

LONDON, June 8.—The striking steamship firemen and laborers of Liverpool have submitted. The strike of the steamship hands at Dublin and Glasgow is extending.

The Shah's Movements.

BERLIN, June 8.—The Shah will arrive here on Sunday and remain until Wednesday.

Fond of Fresh Pork.

The Winnemucca Silver State says: Arthur Kewly, who has a ranch on Big Meadows below Lovelock, noticed that several broods of pigs, which he had in a corral separate from their mothers, were growing less nightly.

One morning early, as he went to the corral to feed the pigs, he saw two wildcats feasting on fresh pork. He went for the felines with a shovel handle, and after a hard fight succeeded in killing them, after they had slain sixty pigs.

He presented their scalps to Justice Pitts, and the Board of County Commissioners allowed him one dollar each for them.

The Jewelers' Trust.

A newspaper reporter, in the guise of a confidential agent for an Illinois watch manufacturing concern which is mixed up in the jewelers' trust, managed to learn from the president of another watch company that $50,000 in all had been contributed by the various combinations of the State to defeat an anti-trust bill pending in the Legislature. As a result the bill has been shelved in the Senate.

THE WOOD DRIVE.

The Scarcity of Water Causes a Suspension.

The Genoa Courier of the 7th inst. says: E. Bemis started his wood drive yesterday morning. He succeeded in getting out about 5,000 cords, and has in the neighborhood of 2,000 cords more cut in the mountains, which will have to lay over until next season. Gray & Campbell got all of their wood out in good shape and the wood-drivers will start in to-morrow morning to bring down the rear, and wind up operations on the river for the season.

J. H. Martin is still running wood into the river and will continue to do so until the rear of the drive arrives, but on account of the scarcity of water the work is progressing rather slowly. It is stated that they are not able to run their flume more than half the time.

An attempt was made last Friday to run wood down Spooner's flume, through John James' ranch, but owing to the scarcity of water only thirty-five cords were put into the river during the day, and the work of fluming was suspended for the season and the men discharged. Hon. Cyrus Coleman, who measured Mr. Longabaugh's wood in Alpine, was at the Spooner camp to measure the wood, and says that only about 2,500 cords were ready to run this season. It is expected that the wood in the James canyon will be run out easily next Spring while there is plenty of water.

Mrs. Adams will hold a spiritual circle on Monday evening at H. Wright's, Sierra street, room No. 1, up-stairs. Admission 25 cents.

An Expression of Delight.

"About a week ago," says a Los Angeles, Cal., druggist, "a Chinaman came in with a lame shoulder. I sold him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and guaranteed that it would cure him. He came in again last night, and as soon as he got inside the door began to swing his arms over his head like an Indian club swinger. I thought the blamed fool had a fit, but he finally stopped long enough to say: "Medicine velly fine, velly fine; allee same make me feel plenty good." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is without an equal for sprains, rheumatism, aches, pains or lame back. For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

O, What a Cough.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents, to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers do not be without it. For Lame Back, Side or Chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by Osburn & Shoemaker.

JOTTINGS.

A new brand of yeast powder with plate, cup and saucer thrown in at E. C. Leadbetter's.

To-morrow Mr. Chamberlain will set before his patrons as fine a meal as was ever served in Reno.

A ride to Laughton's hot springs and a plunge in his swimming bath, is a luxury that all should enjoy.

Don't forget that this is the day to go to John Belz's barber shop for a general renovation and a nice shave.

John Murray of the Star Barber Shop, cuts hair for 25 cents and shaves for 15 cents. Opposite F. Levy & Bro.

Those Sunday lunches to be had always at George Becker's Granite Saloon are equal to an ordinary 25 cent meal.

There is nothing in the line of canned goods and dried fruits that cannot be had at J. N. Wallace's Commercial Row grocery.

If you havn't bought your cherries for canning purposes, you should go to Coffin & Larcombe's at once as the cherries will soon be gone.

All kinds of both native and imported nuts, green fruit and berries, and the best French mixed candies at C. J. Brookins' variety store.

To morrow J. J. Becker will treat his patrons to an extra fine lunch—give him a call and be convinced that its excellence is not exaggerated.

At C. A. Thurston's news depot can be had all the best brands of Lovillard's tobacco and the best cigars, both domestic and imported.

You have only to examine Miss Emma Gibbs' stock of millinery to see where all those pretty hats and bonnets come from that are being worn by the ladies of Reno and vicinity.

Syrup of Figs.

Produced from the laxative and nutritious juice of California figs, combined with the medicinal virtues of plants known to be most benificial to the human system, acts gently, on the kidneys, liver and bowels, effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds headaches, and curing habitual constipation.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise. A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all hat is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the liver and kidneys, will remove pimples, boils, salt rheum and other affections caused by impure blood. Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers. For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters. Entire satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Price, 50 cts. and $1 per bottle at Hodgkinson's drug store.

In Three Days.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism, but it can be done, if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert of New Brunswick, Ills.: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right today; and I would urge on everyone who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." For sale by Osburn & Shoemaker.

Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of lung troubles; was given up by doctors; am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Hodgkinson's drug store.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Hodgkinson & Co., dec2dwly

The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fullness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, foul breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pains in the shoulders and breast. Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic promotes healthy digestion and removes all unhealthy symptoms. Sold by William Pinniger.

A Slight Cold, if neglected, often attacks the lungs. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES gives sure and immediate relief. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cents.

MR. GEST'S VIEWS.

His Idea Regarding a Depot Building—The Erection of New Water Works Advocated.

OFFICE N. & C. R. R.,
RENO, Nev., June 7, 1889.

Messrs. W. P. McLaughlin, President, and Allen C. Bragg, Secretary, of Citizens' Meeting: You are right in asserting Reno's "needs for depot room and depot grounds, instead of being less, will be greater and greater as the country developes, and that the erection of a substantial and snitable union (passenger) depot would be of great advantage and convenience to the companies." * * * You are also justified in remarking that economy and advantage would be derived if the freight yards, station and switching were removed to the east.

To make the change suggested would cost a large sum of money, and mainly be at the expense of the Central Pacific. So much so would the decision and burden fall on that company that it would be impertinent for the interest I represent to claim any right of say or determination in the matter. It so happens my interest has anticipated the necessity to provide at the outset for the future; but even we have not all the land, in my judgment, we should have, nor all we will have if I remain at the helm.

So soon as our road reaches Madaline Plains we will have to have double the track facilities between the Central Pacific tracks and Fourth street we now have, or not do the business. You can rest assured that all I do will be from necessity and interest, and in the necessary building and track laying I shall not erect structures that will contribute to the big bonfire that is liable to occur any day. Nor will I lay a rail or foot of track that is not absolutely necessary, and, when laid, will largely contribute to doing the business that your merchants and others must necessarily do with the railroad, and at the same time enable the intercourse to be had and business done with the least possible inconvenience to your citizens residing on the line of our tracks or having to cross the same. Personally I have for years looked upon the interests of a railway and the public as mutual—what advances the interests of a community contributes to that of the railway—and such as is essential to the railway contributes to the general good. Both community and railway, however, are more or less from necessity imcommoded at times and annoyed, but when it is recognized that the disagreeable and undesirable features are inseparable from the two interests — community and railroad—common sense demands that the best be made out of arising jars and seeming differences.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

You will pardon me for here obtruding the remark that by far the most important and overriding question is the deficiency in the water supply. To remain as now is inexcusable. You can have an efficient water supply within four months at reasonable cost and without contributing a dollar in money. If your laws are not sufficient to justify conservative capital to construct your works, a called meeting of the Legislature should be had and the necessary statutory rights obtained.

Again I must ask your pardon for saying that all shingle roofs in Reno should be removed within ninety days and replaced with metal or non-combustible material.

I see by an ordinance just passed you have established a fire limit, and in said ordinance you except private residences hereafter built from having metal roofs, which is mockery.

I have gone all through the transition period in one place of a city from the inception of the first attempt to restrain the erection of wooden buildings. You will pardon me for saying that your ordinance will prove absolutely good for nothing if you allow the erection of a single building in violation of its provisions. The fight should be made over the first structure, to the finish. This takes backbone and nerve of a kind that is not usually found in selected public officials. Most respectfully, E. GEST.

Contemptable if True.

The Susanville Advocate, in commenting on its libel suit, says: We are satisfied that certain ones, whose business interests are adverse to the existence of the Advocate in this place, and certain others whose enmity to us began before we were born, and who have cause of complaint against us only because we bear the name which in former years proved too much for them, have set on foot this project to ruin us.

If the above is true it is as contemptable as it is dirty, and it is dollars to cents that the Advocate has the sneaks crawling on their bellies inside of a year.

Complimentary.

The Carson Tribune says: Thomas E. Haydon, late United States District Attorney, returned to his home at Reno last evening, with the assurance of the court and brother attorneys that the duties of the office have been ably carried out by him. Mr. Haydon is an old-time resident of Carson and of Reno, where he has valuable property. He is also an old Sierra county man, which speaks well for him or anyone else. He is a consistent, unswerving Democrat, and can neither be bought nor sold.

Home Camp Meeting.

The "Christian Crusaders" of San Francisco will begin meetings in their tabernacle on Second street, corner of Chestnut, this evening and continue over two Sabbaths. Rev. Geo. Newton will have charge of the services. This movement is undenominational and all are invited to participate. Services to-morrow at 9:30 A. M. and 3 and 8 P. M., and through the week at 3 and 8 P. M. each day.

Improving His Property.

E. R. Dodge still continues the work of improvement at his ranch. The Susanville Advocate says work of various kinds is being done, and a telephone line will shortly be built to connect his place with town. It will undoubtedly be the station for the N. & C. in this valley.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

Carson is organizing a gymnasium club.

Don't forget Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels next week.

Large quantities of California fruit continue to go east by the regular passenger trains.

Charley Sharp, formerly of the Ormsby House, Carson, is reported to have the consumption.

At a depth of 390 feet the Winters well in Washoe Valley is said to be flowing fifty gallons per minute.

Rains of the past few days in Carson Valley laid the alfalfa crop flat, rendering it impossible to cut it but one way.

John Theodore tells the Susanville Mail that the prospect for a large hay crop at Tule is good, and that cattle on the ranges are looking well.

The Geological surveying party have left Carson. Part of it went to Markleville and the balance to Carson Valley and along the Carson river.

The scorched side of the Palace Hotel has been scraped, the burned parts replaced and the entire charred section has received one coat of paint.

Drop in at E. C. Northrop's dry goods store and convince yourself that he carries the latest styles in dress goods and that he sells them cheap.

The temporary C. P. ticket office and baggage room is nearly completed. It stands on the platform, just west of the site of the Depot Hotel building.

An eagle took a position on the belfry of the Catholic Church yesterday, where he sat for several hours viewing the town as would become a bird of freedom.

Attention is called to the ad. of G. W. Richards, Secretary of the Board of Commissioners for the care of the insane. He wants bids for furnishing the institution with supplies.

A Virginia City committee headed by Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. Richard Rising and Mrs. T. R. McGurn called a meeting last evening to raise money for those rendered destitute by the Seattle fire.

Rev. H. W. Thomas says of the Drummer Boy of Shiloh's performance: To look upon and hear described its thrilling incidents, was to me an hour of strange and impressive interest. Secure your sests early.

A Reno syndicate gave Theo Winters $500 to bet on his horse at the Chicago races, and, as $20 to $100 was bet against Don Jose at the Chicago meeting, the Reno folks must have come in for a good share of the winning.

Read the new ad. of H. Fisher & Co. of Sacramento in to-day's GAZETTE. This firm carries a large stock fireworks, flags, etc., besides everything in the line of candies, that they will sell to the trade cheaper than anybody else.

The GAZETTE has repeatedly announced that it was necessary for those writing communications to the paper to sign their own names. "Citizen's" communication on the public schools is assigned a place in the waste basket for the want of a proper signature.

Postmaster Hagerman received this morning a circular to the effect that parties can now buy postal orders on foreign countries to the amount of $150, instead of $50, as has been the rule, and that they can send three orders in one day. This will be quite a convenience.

The School for Girls.

The following are the several Rolls of Honor of the School for Girls for the month ending May 29, 1889:

Mary Lucas, 98.33; Gussie Williams, 98.27; Emma Blauvelt, 98.09; Louise Lewis, 97.54; Louise Lucas, 97.42; Mabel Godfroy, 97.13; Edna Mason, 97.09; Vesta Rice, 97.09; Helena Dawson, 97; Frederika Lord, 97; Susie Shoemaker, 96 9

Department of Music—Olive Johnson, Mina Atchison, Oella Sherman, Mary Hopkins, Iva Rowland, Dollie Rule, Ollie Longabaugh, Etta Sims, Emma Blauvelt.

The Crowning Triumph of Electric Science.

About forty persons in and about Reno are now using the peerless "American Electric Belt." They say the electrical effects can be instantly felt all through the body and limbs to the extremities, as soon as applied, and highly recommend its use to their afflicted neighbors for its efficacy in quickly removing pains and aches of long standing, and in strengthening and toning up the nervous, weak, debilitated system, bringing on refreshing sleep and rest, and causing a natural action of the kidneys and liver, relieving constipation, etc. Call on Dr. L. O. Hudson, office at Wm. Pinniger's residence.

K. of P. Election.

Last night Amity Lodge, No. 8, elected the following officers: P. C., C. D. Williams; C. C., G. B. Hymers; V. C., L. J. Cohn; Prelate, C. A. Jones; M. at A., C. C. Powning; K. R. and S., G. R. Mosher; M. of F., J. F. Aitken; M. of E., C. W. Jones; , S. Stanaway; Medical Examiner, Dr. H. H. Bergstein..

Lively Times.

At the corner of Commercial Row and Virginia street last night a woman with two little girls were playing a hand-organ and singing, a patent medicine vender held a crowd a little further up, and between the two Brother Newton's Christian Crusaders were talking gospel. It gave the street a lively appearance.

Business Meeting.

Engine Companies Nos. 1 and 6 are hereby notified to attend a meeting at the engine house next Monday evening. The election of a Chief Engineer will be considered and other business of importance to the department will be done.

Card of Thanks.

The members of Adah Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, desire to return their thanks to the members of the band who kindly furnished the music for the dance Monday evening, and to Rother Brothers for courtesies extended.

THE W. C. T. U.

Resolutions Adopted by the Convention at a Recent Meeting.

The following are the resolutions adopted by the W. C. T. U. Convention, which met in Reno this week:

WHEREAS, We believe that the saloon power is the great curse of the Nation, State and home, the great enemy of industry, labor and public virtue, the foundation of political corruption and anarchy; and, believing that nothing will stem this tide of destruction but Prohibition, be it

Resolved, First, that, in the name of God and the home, we demand of our Legislature the submission to the people an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

Second—That no man should be trusted as the guardian of so great an interest who dare not declare for the principles involved.

Third—That we pledge ourselves to support only the men who will unconditionally bind themselves to work and vote for such an amendment.

Fourth—Inasmuch as the future success of our cause depends largely upon the education of the children in regard to all evils growing out of intemperance, it is decided that we, in our local work, put forth our utmost endeavor to reach the children, and that we assist our Superintendents to the best of our ability.

Fifth—That we earnestly request our local Unions to take measures to enforce the existing laws in regard to minors.

Sixth—That we make vigorous effort by means of petitions, public meetings, etc., to secure correct Governmental example in the observance of the Sabbath and work for law enforcement.

Seventh—That we send a memorial to the National Evangelistic Board, praying them to lay before the National Executive Committee the great necessity in Nevada of missionary work by putting workers in this field and supplying the State with needed literature.

Eighth—That we commend our national organ, The Union Signal, and our State organ, The Prohibitionist, and urge each and every Union to increase their circulation. We also recommend the representative papers of the Y's and Loyal Legion.

Ninth—That we offer sincere thanks to the Divine Counsellor who has led us through defeats and victories until the present hour, and that we will with renewed effort work for the advancement of every department, trusting in Him who promised His followers that he would lead them through trials to ultimate success.

SPECIAL RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.

First—To Rev. C. H. Gardner for his untiring efforts and self sacrifice in publishing our State paper.

Second—That we extend to the editor of the Reno GAZETTE our heartfelt thanks for his noble defense of the W. C. T. U. in his issue of May 13, 1889.

Third—That we tender our sincere thanks to those members of the Legislature who so nobly worked for the promotion of our cause in the last session.

Fourth—That we extend to our worthy and esteemed President, Mrs. Lucy Van DeVenter, our thankful appreciation of her valuable service and for her earnest, faithful work during the year, and the prayer for our Heavenly Father's choicest blessings to rest upon her and her work in the years to come. Also, to Sister E. J. Talbot for her very able and efficient service; to the good people of Reno for their generous hospitality, and to the railroads for reduced fares.

HE SENT IT EAST.

For a year I was troubled with pains in my back and side, and headaches, the result of liver and kidney trouble. I was attracted to Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla by the startling testimonials in the papers and which seemed so practical I was induced to try it, knowing that as it was purely vegetable, it would at any rate do no harm. It acted as a gentle laxative and after the second bottle my pains and aches disappeared and I felt like a new man. It did so much for me that I sent several bottles to my family in New Jersey, who also took it with the most satisfactory results.

Oregon is one of the most productive States in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. Its immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being, in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Webfoot State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Pinniger.

PERSONAL.

Disease and Death

Force their way into many a household that might be protected from their inroads by the simple precaution of keeping in the house that benign family medicine and safeguard of health, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Particularly when there are children, should it be kept on hand, as a prompt remedy for infantile complaints, in their outset easily conquerable, but which, if allowed to engraft themselves on the delicate childish organism are not easily dislodged, and speedily work grievous mischief. Irregularity of the bowels, indigestion and biliousness, are ailments of common occurrence in the household. Children, living in malarious regions, are more liable to be attacked with chills and fever than adults, and are ravages of that fell disease in their system are speedier and more ous. In remote localities, far from professional aid, it is especially desirable.

WIDOW SPILKIN'S DAUGHTER.

The young folks are a-having
The jolliest sort of time,
And Mary Anna's laughter
Sounds like a silvery chime,
As she sends the lignum vitæ
A-whirling through the wires,
Or knocks Will Afker's ball away,
Clear out among the briers.
And it somehow sets me thinking
How I used to carry water
From the spring o' Sunday evenings,
For the Widow Spilkin's daughter.

Those were happy days to us,
Though we didn't play croquet,
We'd never heard of such a game,
But sparked the good old way.
The ladies dressed in plain homespun,
Without a bang or bustle;
They warn't afraid to look at you,
And gloried in a tussel.
But the most enjoy'ble thing to me
Was when I carried water
From the spring o' Sunday evenings
For the Widow Spilkin's daughter.

Things have changed amazing sight
In these forty years or more,
With the telegraph and phonograph,
And iron wagon's roar.
But I ain't a-goin' to grumble,
For I think the change is right,
And the world is rushing swiftly
Out of darkness into light.
But, somehow, I love recalling
How I used to carry water
From the spring o' Sunday evenings,
For the Widow Spilkin's daughter.

Yonder is an aged woman
Walking out among the bowers,
Where a glory falls about her
As she plucks the brightest flowers.
And she looks as sweet and pretty
As she did so long ago,
'Ere the frosts of many winters
Crowned her lovely brow with snow.
Yes, to me she is as pretty
As when I carried water
From the spring o' Sunday evenings
For the Widow Spilkin's daughter

So I think I'll drop my musings
And join her in the shade;
I'll play the bashful lover,
She shall play the blushing maid.
For I know her cheek will crimson,
And her eyes will brighter grow
When I slip my arm around her,
As I used to long ago.
And—since I've thought about
I believe I'll fetch some water
From the spring this Sunday evening
For the Widow Spilkin's daughter.
—Yankee Blade.

AMONG THE APACHES,

The Story of a Government Mail Carrier.

By Judicious Lying He Won the Friendship of a Captive Chief, Which Afterward Saved His Life—Days of Suspense.

A year previous to the time General Custer was ordered West to begin a vigorous campaign against the Indians the Apaches were in their glory, and they boasted that they could defeat any force of soldiers sent against them. I was scouting and mail-carrying in Texas for the Government, and after many close shaves was finally captured by the red devils.

A month before my capture I was out on a scout on the Rio Pecos river, our party numbering eighteen men. One day at noon we went into camp in a grove of cottonwoods. The Lieutenant in command informed me that he had lost his revolver from its holster during the last mile of our ride, and asked me to ride back in search. Instead of riding I returned on foot, and had the luck to find the weapon only about a quarter of a mile away. I then cut across an elbow to reach the grove, and when within stone's throw came suddenly upon an Indian pony in a dry gulch, and at the same instant discovered his owner crouched behind a bowlder with his back to me and his face to the grove. I had him under my rifle before he could turn his head. He had a rifle in his hand, but I called out to him to lay it down or I would fire, and after a moment's hesitation he obeyed. Then, as I kept him covered at a distance of only seven or eight feet I called to the men in the grove, and several of them came hurrying down in response.

I had captured a son of Black Cloud, chief of one of the Apache bands, and the boy was named after his father. He was only fourteen years old, and his presence there exemplified the ruling traits of Apache character. Three hours before he had discovered our party while out hunting with a party of his own. They dared not make an open attack, but the young chief, single-handed and alone, was going to pick off the Lieutenant, and then make his escape to boast of it. He was greatly chagrined by his capture. We were on our way back to Fort McKavett, and we determined to carry him in prisoner. When he was informed of this he earnestly begged me to kill him, saying that he could never hold up his head among his people again. Had he been wounded and rendered helpless it would not have been so bad; but to be taken as he was would forever disgrace him. We bound him fast to his pony and set out for the fort.

Three hours after his capture we got sight of a single Indian a mile away to our right on a knoll, and as we halted young Black Cloud informed me that it was one of his tribe, who wanted to have a talk with us. Signals were exchanged between the two, and the stranger soon came galloping in. He was one of the hunting party, and had been dogging us for twenty miles to find out if the boy had been captured. As he halted in our midst, and saw the ignoble situation of the boy, his first thought was to fight for him. I called his attention to the fact that any move of his would result in the death of both, and then explained how the youth was captured. Knowing the conceit of the tribe, I spread it on very thick, alleging that it required our whole force to make the capture, and it was not accomplished then without a hard fight. This falsehood made the boy my friend for life, while it put the other in better humor. I stated that young Black Cloud would be taken to the fort and held prisoner until exchanged for some white captive, and gave my word that he would be well treated meanwhile. He sent a message to his father to the effect that he was not afraid, and hoped to be at liberty in a few days, and two hours later we had him safely lodged in the guard house at the fort.

Two weeks after the capture of young Black Cloud I was called into the Colonel's office one evening and asked if I thought it possible to get through to Fort Concho with dispatches. The Apaches had us almost in a state of siege, being seen every day within five miles of the post, and the chances of making a sixty-mile ride across the plains lying between the two forts without running against a party of hostiles was not one in fifty. At such perilous times a Government rider is not commanded to go. He is asked certain questions, however, in a manner which decides him to make the attempt. I left the post at nine o'clock at night of an August evening perfectly satisfied that I should be dead or a prisoner before midnight. Before setting out I went in to see young Black Cloud and say goodbye. When I told him of my journey he took from his neck a buckskin string, to which was attached the tooth of a grizzly bear, and handed it to me with the remark:

"You can not get through. You will be captured or killed. If not shot down, show this to my people. They will know who it belongs to. They may trade you for me, and I shall thus get back to my tribe."

A thunder-storm was coming up as I took my departure. For a full hour I rode ahead at a steady gallop, one moment in darkness so black that I could not see the ears of my horse, and the next in a blaze of light so brilliant that it blinded me. By the time the storm had passed I was a good fifteen miles from the fort, and as I had seen nothing to alarm me I began to hope that I would get through all right. Between ten and eleven o'clock I pulled my broncho down to a walk for the first time, when he suddenly uttered a snort of alarm and started off with wild jumps. Three or four rifles cracked, and as the reports reached me the horse fell in a heap and flung me far over his head. I was momentarily stunned by the fall, and before I had made a move to get up I was seized by at least three Indians, who were not a minute in binding my hands and feet. When I got a clear head once more it was to realize that the Apaches had me a secure prisoner, and that there were six or seven warriors about me.

The Indians knew that I was a white man, but they didn't know who they had got hold of until morning came. During the interval I lay on the wet ground guarded by two of the warriors, and almost immediately after my capture two men were sent off in different directions with news of it. A party of twelve Apaches arrived just before daylight and ten more at sunrise, and among the latter I recognized Black Cloud, father of the boy. One of the men had recognized me as "The-white-man-who-hurries," as the Government riders were called, and as being in the party who captured the chief's son. No one ever saw such a mad lot of redskins before or since. They wanted to torture me, and yet they realized that through me the boy could obtain his liberty. The chief at first declared that he had disowned his son, and that he might rot in confinement before he would exchange a white prisoner for him. When I called his attention to the charm young Black Cloud had given me the old man pretended to believe that it was a sign the boy was dead, and he ordered my immediate torture. I was jerked to a sitting position, my boots cut off, and the devils were about to use their knives on my feet when the old man changed his mind and restrained them. Black Cloud demanded the particulars of his boy's capture. I saw that he felt degraded over the event, and was ready to disown the youth, and I made out a strong defense for the little chap to save my own scalp.

It was finally decided to spare my life for a few days, and I was conducted to a camp in the foot-hills between the two forts. While Black Cloud wanted his son back, some of his advisers contended that he should wait until securing some cheaper prisoner. They insisted on making me out a very important personage, and it was well known that I had killed or wounded several of the tribe in different scrimmages. Another thing that bothered them was how to make the exchange and not get beaten. Treacherous and deceitful to the last degree themselves, they would not credit the whites with having any honor. It was argued, too, that the commander of the fort would exchange the boy for a private soldier or any sort of prisoner, and that I had done them too much damage to be set at liberty. There were three days in which my fate was undecided, and during the last day a stake was driven and fagots collected for a fire to torture me. I had no voice in the council, being bound and under guard, but it was at length decided to make the exchange. So cautious and fearful were the Indians that it took a week to effect what might have been done a day. I wrote a note to the commandant explaining the situation. This was carried in by a squaw, who was permitted to see and converse with young Black Cloud. He replied that he would exchange. The Apaches then wanted the boy turned loose before they released me, but this I would not hear to, knowing they would murder me. It was finally arranged that he was to be escorted a mile outside the fort and turned loose on his horse. I was to be taken to within a mile of the fort, and turned loose on foot. The parties were to occupy eminences half a mile apart, and the hour was to be nine o'clock in the morning. This plan was carried out. Twenty soldiers came out with the boy, and about the same number of Apaches escorted me. The treachery of the copper-faced devils was soon exemplified. They had posted five warriors in a dry run to shoot me down as I made for the fort. The boy doubtless suspected some such move, for as soon as released he came galloping straight for me, and after a "how-how" and a hand shake he insisted that I walk beside his pony until we reached the gate of the fort. When I was safe he waved his hand and rode away to be received with yells and cheers, and it was then we saw the treacherous rascals creeping out of the cover where they had been stationed. A year later, after a fight in which over forty of the bravest Apache warriors had gone to earth, I found young Black Cloud among the dead, having been hit four times. He had a Winchester and a revolver from which every cartridge had been fired.—N. Y. Sun.

OUT OF FASHION.

Mahogany Furniture No Longer Considered the Correct Thing.

"A few years ago," said an up-town furniture dealer to a New York Sun reporter, "nobody cared much to buy bedsteads, tables, book-cases or sofas made of any other wood than mahogany. Indeed, large pieces of furniture of any of the lighter woods were thought to make a rather vulgar display. The piano was the only exception to this rule. At all times rosewood was the most popular frame for one of these instruments, but this was not due to any notion that rosewood was handsomer, but simply to the fact that the great heaviness and density of mahogany stifled the music. Now black walnut, cherry, ash, oak and every sort of light wood that will take a high polish are seen in fashionable houses, but of the heavy, old, wine-colored mahogany rarely a stick. I think it was the musical necessity of using lighter wood that caused the revolution in general furniture making. When people changing their residences saw the difficulty with which pianos were carried to the vans they began to wonder how much power it would cost to lift them if they were made of mahogany, and this led to the reflection that fully two-thirds of the weight of the entire household furniture might be knocked off if it were manufactured in lighter woods.

"Then began the decadence of mahogany—decadence of its utility as a furniture wood, I mean, for in its integral parts it is almost everlasting. It is undoubtedly the richest, handsomest and most stately of all woods, but its popularity has been crushed beneath its own weight. A few conservative people in New York, and many in England, still furnish their houses with it, but such persons are not afflicted with the migratory fever that leads the average American family to seek a new home about once in two years. Mahogany furniture once placed in position seems to be nearly as immovable as when the dark wood was in its native forests, and the restless, nomadic householder of to-day does not care to be anchored to his dwelling."

An Honest Gas Meter.

The Electrical World says that there used to be such a prejudice against gas meters that consumers of electricity did not like to have their electrical meters put anywhere near their gas meters, lest the new gauge might contract bad and lying habits from the old one. The electric meter has a reputation as good as that of the gas measurers is bad. Now an ingenious fellow has turned up with a patent for a combination gas and electrical meter as accurate in its workings as a pair of jeweler's scales.

LEGAL.

Town Order No. 31.

An Ordinance pertaining to sewerage in the town of Reno.

[Adopted May 8th, 1889.]

BY VIRTUE OF THE POWER AND AUthority conferred by the laws of the State of Nevada, the Board of County Commissioners do ordain as follows:

Section 1. That no person shall construct or maintain, or suffer to be or remain upon his premises, or premises under his control, any privy or privy vault, cesspool, sink or drain, without connecting the same by means of iron-stone, vitrified earthen or iron pipe, with the street or alley sewer, in such manner that it shall be effectually drained and purified, if there be a sewer in the street or alley on which said premises may now be or hereafter be situated, with which the same can be connected. Every drain or branch sewer hereafter constructed which shall connect with a dwelling or building, or with a privy, privy vault or cesspool, shall be provided with some apparatus or means by which such drain or branch sewer may be effectually flushed or cleansed; and also, shall be provided with a trap or apparatus which will practically prevent the escape of gases from the sewer into such dwelling house, building, privy, privy vault or cesspool, which trap or apparatus shall be so constructed and placed that it can be readily and conveniently examined and inspected.

Section 2. That it is hereby made the duty of all persons who are required to connect with the sewers as provided in the foregoing section to do so within thirty days after having received a written or printed notice from the Chief of Police or any legally constituted police officer, whose duty it is, and shall be, to serve said notice as soon as practical hereafter upon all persons owning or controlling property adjoining or abutting any street or alley through which sewers are now or may hereafter be laid; and should any such person or persons fail to make the connection within the said time or in the manner prescribed, or otherwise violate the provisions of the said Section One, he or she, or they, shall be deemed guilty of a nuisance, and, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding Two Hundred Dollars, or imprisoned in the County Jail any time not exceeding Six Days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 3. All ordinances and parts of ordinance in conflict with this are hereby repealed. T. K. HYMERS,
Chairman Board of County Commissioners.

Summons.

In the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the Condty of Washoe.

THE STATE OF NEVADA SENDS TO A. Z. FRANKLIN greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendant by LENA M. FRANKLIN as plaintiff in the District Court of the State of Nevada, in and for the County of Washoe, and answer the complaint therein within ten days after the service on you of this Summons (exclusive of the day of service), if served in said County, or twenty days if served out of said County, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or Judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover the Judgment and Decree of this Court annulling the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing between you and the said plaintiff, on the ground of failure on your part to provide for the plaintiff the common necessaries of life, such failure and neglect on your part not being the result of poverty which could not have been avoided by ordinary industry, all of which will more fully appear from the Complaint, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said County, and to which you are especially referred.

And you are further notified, that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court this 6th day of May, A. D. 1889.
